

The implementation of Copyright protection on HDTV broadcasts would be a step backwards for the development of the standard. This is an anti-consumer measure that will eliminate the time shifting capability that consumers have had for almost 20 years. It seems inappropriate for the FCC to serve the special interest instead of the consumer.